

Sean M. Stiff is a Legislative Attorney for the American Law Division of the Congressional Research Service (CRS). He principally covers appropriations law, federal credit programs, government organization, oversight, and related constitutional issues. Sean joined CRS in 2019 after practicing litigation with an Ohio-based firm on a broad range of federal and state legal matters.

Sean received his J.D., magna cum laude, from the University of Michigan and his B.A., summa cum laude, from the University of Toledo. He clerked for U.S. District Judge Jack Zouhary of the Northern District of Ohio. Prior to law school, Sean served on the staff of the U.S. Senate Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs and in the personal office of a U.S. Senator. He is a member of the Ohio Bar.
